HONGKONG CRICKET CLUB. The annual meeting of the Cricket Club for the purpose of receiving the Committee's Report for the past season, to pass the Accounts, and to elect officers and a committee for the coming ecason, was hald in the Oricket Pavilion vesterday evening. The .Hou, A. J. Leach (President) occupied the chair, and there were present among others Cantain Dunn, Col. Rayanhill, Messra W. H. Wallaco, G. S. Purvis, E. A. Ram (members of the Committee), Major Seife, R.A., Dr J. A. Lowson, Messre Bird, Markwick, Thomson, Grimble, Taverner, Barff, Hawkins, Hanisch, &c.

The President said he thought the Report might be taken as read, and he would only offer a very few remarks upon it. He had been much atruck by the excellence of the batting averages, which were exceptionally good, especially that of Captain Dunn. He considered that the Report showed them to be in a very flourishing condition. and he hoped the forthcoming match with Shanghai would atimulate new and old members to fresh exertion. He held in his hand a list of members who would probably form the team, and he thought that they ought to be well able to take care of themselves. He could not conclude his remarks without making some reference to the loss the Club had sustained by the sad death of Lieut. E. M. Loring. R.E. s " keen cricketer and a valued friend to many present. In conclusion he might state that the ground would be open to members on Saturday, 1st October, or possibly at an earlier date if the weather kept dry. Mr V. A. C. Hawkins proposed and Ma R. W. Mitchell seconded the adoption of the Report, which was carried unanimously. Dr Lowson proposed and Capt. Dunn se conded the re-election of Hon. A. J Leach as prosident, which was likewise carried unanimously. The following officers were then elected for the ensuing sesson :- Mr E. A. Ram, Hon. Sec.; Mr G. S. Purvis, Hon. Treaaurer : Col. Ravenhill, Dr J. A. Lowson. Mr T. E. Davies, Capt. Dunn, Mr W. H. Wallace, and Major Selfe, R. A., members of committee.

BRITISH MERCANTILE MARINE OFFICERS' ASSOCIATION.

A special meeting of this Association was hold in the Association Rooms last nightthe President, Captain Samuel Ashton, in the chair. There was a good attendance. PREVENTION OF PIRACIES-DEPUTATION

TO THE GOVERNOR. The Chairman said they had received an important communication from the Colenial Secretary enent the subject of piracy. His Excellency the Governor had kindly and graciously intimated that he would be willing to receive a deputation from the Association to hear their ideas, and to talk over the acheme proposed by the Association for the mitigation or suppression of piracy in the China seas which was such a constant menace to steamers trading with the proposer of Mr Williams. Hongkong. (Applause). The Association had been recognised by Lord Salisbury and by the Governors of other Crown Colonies. and they welcomed this further recognition on the part of Sir William Robinson. As a small society they had achieved a good deal in the short period of their existence, and they hoped to have much better results in the future for their own good as British mercantile marine officers and for the good of the owners and the Insurance Offices (applause). which, he the way, might with advantage have been a little less personal on both sides sometimes, it seems to have been forgotten now and then that this Ordinance has been in operation for twelve months and that His Excellency wants to have an expression of opinion on the working thereof. As long as the introduction of the

I am further told that share transactions betwen Landon and the Coast Ports and here—a perfectly legitimate branch of share business-would be slopped if numbers were required. One would imagine that in those cases where the telegraphic code does not suffice, a remark on the contract that numbers are to be given after receipt of the confirmatory letter would meet the casealways supposing, of course, that the seller in London or Shanghai is not trying to sell you something he has not got !

Another objection to the Ordinance, and a very favorite one, too, je this: 'Suppose, say the opponents of the Ordinance, 'a person is selling for delivery six months ahead to a then perfectly solvent party; and that after three months the seller finds out that the buyer is approsed to be in difficulties; how is the former to protect himself in a falling market against the possibility that the buy er will not take up the shares at the end of Apart from the fact that according to my the six months? The vendor is by the procoming three months previously."

At first sight this looks like a strong argument against the Ordinance. There is, however, one weak point in it, and that is that the same difficulty confronts any merchant entering into transactions for forward delivery, if his buyer is getting into trouble between the date of contract and the date of delivery. A cargo of a certain brand of kerosene oil, say, to arrive by a certain ship could not be sold over again under similar circumstances. It is precisely the same

There remains then one more argument against this Ordinance. So much for the first part of that objection. As to its second half, it would be a real benefit, for the present at any rate, if the starting of new companies was stopped for a little while. We have quite enough to do with the winding up of the old ones, And here I come to a point which has never yet been given due prominence in the controversy that is going on; that is the immense harm which the gambling that has been going on has done, not only to the individual speculator or investor but to the many companies which have had to be wound up during the last few years for want of money, and to others still in existence that are dying a lingering death from drug has, almost within the memory of living man, usurped the place of a household luxury. When chloreform was in course of introduction it was in a somewhat similar manner adopted for a time as a kind of scientific bon-bon. It was a plaything of society, and curious terms are told of its effects in the drawing-rooms of a past generation. It is asserted that some erration epicures have more recently sought to add something to the fine native flavour of the strawberry by sprinkling it with ether. Surely the law of contrast could not be further strained or the palate of man be more gressly insulted. Better, perhaps. ing for taste'), but worse by far in its unabsinthe for wine at dinner. It is hardly worth our while to proclaim the self-evident fact that no process of reasoning can justify ments are doubly discreditable. They aregost, on the one hand, a meretricious tendency to indulge in the pleasures of the palate and, on the other, a oulpable indifference to the dangerous folly of playing with edged tools.
